Creating a more Equitable and Just World

2021 Social Impact Report

Welcome Message

from Nikki Clifton

Throughout 2021, The UPS Foundation supported some of the toughest issues facing our global communities. This year's Social Impact Report highlights the Foundation's historical footprint, innovative solutions, collaborative partnerships, and employee commitment to giving back. Together, we are on a mission to create a more equitable and just world. We invite you to join us on this interactive journey to learn more about how we have engaged in our communities and the lives we've impacted through our efforts.

The UPS Foundation

Celebrating 70 years of community engagement.

1951

Founded as “The 1907 Foundation” in November.

“I hope that The Foundation will accomplish good purposes, which will reflect to the benefit and goodwill of the company.”

- Jim Casey, UPS Founder

1963

The James E. Casey Scholarship program was introduced for children of UPS employees in the U.S. who pursue a four-year degree.

1980

UPS CEO George Lamb established a National Employee Giving Program with United Way to encourage volunteering and donating monetarily to local communities.

1957

First grant committee created to consider recommendations received from employees – a practice that continues today.

1959

More than 30 universities endowed with an initial investment of $30 million for programs and professors specializing in transportation, logistics, and human resources. Today, it is valued at over $330 million.

1976

The 1907 Foundation was renamed The UPS Foundation.

1983

The George D. Smith Scholarship Program launched to provide scholarships to children of UPS employees pursuing a two-year degree or certification at an accredited junior or community college, business, vocational or technical school.

Celebrating 70 Years of The UPS Foundation

Service is in our DNA. Our founder, Jim Casey, was ahead of his time when he created The UPS Foundation more than 70 years ago. The UPS Foundation is rooted in Jim's belief that the company's success is defined not only by its achievements in business but also by its pledge. As we celebrated this milestone, we honored our Founder's vision of a company that embraces and partners with its community to deliver meaningful impact. As part of the celebration, we announced a new direction that focuses our work and charitable giving on the tenets of equity and justice in the most vulnerable and underserved communities.

Blueprint for peace and prosperity for the planet

The United Nations established the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as a framework to guide governments, businesses, and civil society as they work together to address the world's most pressing needs. The relevance and importance of the 17 SDGs are being reinforced every day. There is heightened global awareness about the need to strengthen access to healthcare, education and economic opportunities for all.

“UPS’s sustainability goals aren’t just promises we’ve made; they come with clear milestones and action plans aimed at moving our world forward by delivering what matters.” – Laura Lane, Chief Corporate Affairs Officer at UPS

The SDGs are a worldwide collective promise to create positive and lasting change

Through its four focus areas, The UPS Foundation’s work is targeted at successfully advancing support for these five SDGs.

Advancing global vaccine equity with innovation

Imagine a drone lifting off to deliver urgently-needed COVID-19 vaccines to some of the most remote villages in Ghana. It's the kind of innovative solution that The UPS Foundation used to deliver more than 34.5 million doses of the vaccine to underserved countries around the world. By aligning UPS's logistics capabilities, the dedication and expertise of its people, with the mission of partners such as CARE®, Gavi, UNICEF, and Zipline, The UPS Foundation played a critical role in helping to accelerate vaccine equity and health systems' capacity. Overall, UPSers have delivered more than 1 billion doses of COVID-19 vaccines in 110 countries—delivering hope and health solutions to underserved communities. LEARN MORE ►

Strengthening cold chain capabilities in Central America

Due to inconsistencies in cold chains, the Belize Ministry of Health and Wellness was challenged to successfully transport biological samples from rural health centers to the National Medical Lab in Belize City. Through its partnership with the University of Notre Dame Pulte Institute and the Ministry of Health, The UPS Foundation donated 40 thermal shipping containers that would provide the stable cold chain environment needed to safely transport the biologic samples. UPS Healthcare stepped in to provide technical support, training the users on the proper use of cold chain packaging. The program's success demonstrated that an improved cold chain network is essential for strengthening health systems and creating opportunities to scale similar programs throughout Central America. Delivering urgent COVID-19 relief to India and its people

The massive surge in COVID-19 cases, fueled by the rapid spread of the Delta variant, threatened to overwhelm the healthcare system in India's state of West Bengal. With daily cases spiking to more than 400,000, the lack of oxygen equipment turned into a crisis. The UPS Foundation immediately pledged their support to India. Restoring homes, restoring dignity

Nine years had passed since Hurricane Sandy ravaged the East Coast of the United States and caused significant damage to Richard Bennick's home. A retired New York City firefighter, Richard couldn't afford to complete the needed repairs to his home. He slept in an overcoat during the winter months to keep warm and had to endure the intense mildew smell every time it rained due to the leaky roof. Through funding from The UPS Foundation, St. Bernard Project (SBP) helped Richard get a new roof, siding, and provided interior repairs to his home. Through this partnership, we have aided more than 2,900 families with their rebuilding efforts in the aftermath of a natural disaster. LEARN MORE ►

Providing safe drinking water to meet basic needs

Across the East African countries of Kenya, Tanzania, and Uganda, it's estimated that women and children spend 200 million hours per day collecting safe drinking water. That's valuable time that could be spent earning a living or attending school. WaterStep collaborated with UPS logisticians to develop a new approach for distributing its water treatment equipment to areas in East and South Africa, where approximately 157 million people lack access to safe drinking water. The UPS Foundation funded the organization's largest shipment of equipment. These safe water systems will help an estimated 1.7 million people have access to clean water. LEARN MORE ►

Helping in the aftermath of hurricanes

As Hurricane Ida churned off the Gulf Coast of the United States, The UPS Foundation worked with the American Red Cross and other partners to pre-position supplies and volunteers before the Category 4 storm made landfall. Since 1992, The UPS Foundation has provided $500,000 to the Red Cross Emergency Relief Fund to help ensure that essential relief supplies are available in a disaster's aftermath. The UPS Foundation mobilized more than 40 truckloads of relief supplies with several partner organizations after the storm tore through nine states. Through our partnership with ToolbankUSA, we transported thousands of tools to help families and volunteers dig out, clean up, and start down the road to recovery. LEARN MORE ►

Stepping up for Haiti earthquake victims

When a 7.2 magnitude earthquake rocked Haiti, thousands of people died, and countless more were left without shelter. As relief operations were getting started, Tropical Storm Claire ripped through the country compounding the suffering of the Haitian people. The UPS Foundation immediately granted $500,000 for food, shelter, and medical aid, and launched a collaboration with 10 non-profit partners to provide additional support. UPS Healthcare, UPS Global Freight Forwarding, and Coyote Logistics also provided three emergency relief flights into Haiti. LEARN MORE ►

Supporting Afghan refugees' dreams for a better tomorrow

With more than 600,000 Afghans fleeing from Taliban rule, The UPS Foundation launched a multi-phased approach to assist with this humanitarian crisis. In partnership with the American Red Cross, Good360, Friends of Disabled Adults and Children, The CDC Foundation, and The Salvation Army, The UPS Foundation provided care for Afghan refugees arriving in the United States. Together $1.5 million in relief supplies were delivered. Overseas, UPS partnered with United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to transport shelter supplies to Uzbekistan supporting 35,000 displaced Afghan refugees. LEARN MORE ►

Helping CARE empower women and girls globally

CARE works around the globe, with a focus on women and girls, to save lives, defeat poverty, and achieve social justice. As just one example of our partnership, The UPS Foundation worked with CARE to upgrade their inventory management system in five country offices in West Africa. The effort has contributed to humanitarian relief shipments being delivered efficiently for more than two million vulnerable people.

Boosting microfinancing for women-owned businesses worldwide

Madame Rose is a widowed mother of eight who lives in Uganda and operates a thriving agribusiness. A savvy entrepreneur, Rose accessed financing and received business training from Opportunity International, a global organization that designs, delivers, and scales innovative financial solutions that help families living in extreme poverty build sustainable livelihoods and access quality education for their children. Rose has significantly increased her income and assets and has become a role-model and mentor to other women in her community.

Funding from The UPS Foundation helps Opportunity International support equity and economic empowerment for women entrepreneurs like Rose in Colombia, Ghana, and Uganda. This powerful partnership is providing knowledge, capital, and access to markets to motivated, underserved women.

Helping women-owned businesses thrive

Nilu owns a tea business in Sri Lanka. Operating a small business is a difficult task in the best of times, but the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic brought even greater barriers and uncertainty to entrepreneurs like Nilu. Fortunately, she was part of the Asia Women Exporters' Mentorship Program, which is a collaboration between The UPS Foundation and the Asian Trade Centre Foundation. The program equips women-owned-and-led small businesses across the Asia-Pacific region with the skills and knowledge needed to grow and develop their company's export capabilities. Through this program, Nilu expanded her cross-border trading activities and grew her business despite the pandemic. Equipped with new confidence, Nilu now shares what she's learned with other women-owned businesses in her community. LEARN MORE ►

Forging a brighter future through higher education

Fulfilling a dream. That's what the OCA-UPS Gold Mountain Scholarship is all about. Since 1999, The UPS Foundation has provided the funding for more than 160 scholarships to support first-generation Asian American and Pacific Islander high school students in their pursuit of higher education. Eh Ler Moo is one of the 2021 scholars. Born in a refugee camp on the Thailand-Myanmar border, she came to the United States in 2008. She plans to expand her interest in mental health and become a psychologist who works with low-income and immigrant families. Support for the scholarship program is part of a broader collaboration with the OCA-Asian Pacific American Advocates that began in 1994. LEARN MORE ►

Protecting the vulnerable from human trafficking

More than 40 million people are exploited through human trafficking each year. This insidious trade in human life generates $150 billion in profits. The UPS Foundation supports the fight against human trafficking in India and Nepal through its support of Plan International USA's PROTECT project. Providing a holistic approach to trafficking prevention, PROTECT includes everyone—from girls, young boys, and their families to border patrol agents and local businesses. The project equips communities with the knowledge and skills they need to identify and stop traffickers. And, since financial stress is often linked to trafficking and early marriage, PROTECT provides training to trafficking survivors and at-risk young people to gain in-demand job skills with links to potential employers.

Restoring dignity and fostering self-sufficiency across Atlanta

The survivors of abuse, exploitation, and trafficking that come to Atlanta's City of Refuge (COR) face special challenges in their quest to re-enter society. Financial support from The UPS Foundation is directed to COR's Workforce Innovation Hub, which provides job training courses that develop the skills and confidence these women need to earn a job and start a rewarding career. UPS also partnered with COR to conduct seven job fairs, which led to 114 individuals receiving employment opportunities at UPS. The path to independence can be a long journey. Through its work with COR, The UPS Foundation is helping restore communities and bringing lasting hope to people in crisis by helping them overcome systemic barriers and increase their self-sufficiency.

Working to achieve zero hunger

The UPS Foundation partnered with the Atlanta Hawks and Goodr, a technology food waste reduction company, to provide “Thanksgiving Day essentials” to more than 350 families in Clayton County, Georgia. UPS volunteers along with students of the UPS Scholars program from Spelman College, Morehouse College, and Clark Atlanta University came out to sort, pack, and distribute the free groceries. Additionally, The UPS Jobs team was on hand to speak with the participating families about seasonal job opportunities at UPS. The Foundation’s work with organizations like Goodr helps advance its ongoing support for diverse, small and medium businesses. LEARN MORE ►

Funding scholarship opportunities at Historically Black Colleges and Universities

Helping students overcome the financial barrier to higher education has deep roots at The UPS Foundation. In 1995, The UPS Foundation launched the UPS Community Service Scholars Program as an intentional way to better support students attending Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) in the metro Atlanta area. The scholars receive a $5,000 annual scholarship and are asked to provide 150 hours each semester tutoring and mentoring students at Fickett Elementary School in Southwest Atlanta. To date, we’ve awarded more than $4 million to these scholars. This program offers a unique opportunity for students who are looking to achieve academic excellence while making a difference in the lives of young children.

Providing access to high-quality legal aid

Removing barriers to opportunity is at the heart of the Georgia Justice Project's (GJP) work. GJP touches every aspect of the criminal justice continuum with a goal to reduce the number of Georgians in the correctional system and to lower recidivism rates. Financial support from The UPS Foundation is helping provide high-quality, pro bono criminal defense, legal assessments, training for volunteer attorneys and related support. As society reassesses the application of justice, equity, and fairness in the legal justice systems, GJP is supporting second chances and another opportunity at life.

Activating allyship with LGBTQ+ communities

Our rallying cry, "You Belong at UPS," unites UPSers, our customers, and the communities where we live and serve. UPS knows that to make a more inclusive and equitable world, allyship with the LGBTQ+ community is critical. That's why The UPS Foundation was proud to support PFLAG National's Straight for Equality program. PFLAG is the first and largest organization for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ+) people, their parents and families, and allies. UPS's support of PFLAG National in 2021 engaged over 18,000 individuals through 173 learning sessions, working to build inclusive allies and promote action in the workplace. LEARN MORE ►

Transforming smiles and changing lives

Operation Smile Peru is well-known in the country for its tireless work in providing access to safe surgical care and comprehensive, ongoing healthcare services for hundreds of children born each year in Peru with cleft lips and palates. Operation Smile is keenly aware that many of its patients consistently face the endemic threat of malnutrition. The COVID-19 pandemic exacerbated food insecurity and the subsequent risk of anemia and starvation. In response, The UPS Foundation provided funding to Operation Smile and its Nutrikit Project, which included distributing 200 food baskets to the children being helped and provided them with yet another reason to smile.

Fostering learning across Colombia with new school libraries

Amid armed conflict in Colombia, non-profit Global Humanitaria provides a path to a brighter future through educational programming for the country's most vulnerable children. In the port city of Tumaco, 33 dedicated teachers have received specialized training in preschool literacy, effective communication and conflict-resolution skills. Thanks to a grant from The UPS Foundation, six institutions received new instructional materials, books, and furniture to create libraries and an inviting space for children to learn. Overall, 1,800 students will benefit from this funding, which will enhance reading, writing, and comprehension skills.

Uniting to give veterans greater freedom of mobility

UPSer Greg Schneider, a UPS 34-year Circle of Honor driver, has been building wheelchair ramps through Operation Ramp it Up, which he founded in 2014. Financial support from The UPS Foundation helps this organization provide freedom, accessibility, and independence to disabled veterans and their families who have exhausted all other resources and are unable to otherwise install a ramp. To date, 280 ramps have been installed in 40 states, and UPSers have contributed more than 10,000 volunteer hours. When ramps are no longer needed, volunteers remove the ramp and recycle it to be used by other veterans in need. To date, 150 ramps have been recycled and reinstalled for other veterans. Delivering what matters when natural disasters strike

When a volcanic eruption—lasting three months—on the Canary Island of La Palma sent molten lava flowing to the sea, it destroyed nearly 2,000 buildings and forced the evacuation of 7,000 people. The air was polluted with suspended volcanic ash, which severely limited visibility and caused poor air quality. In partnership with the Spanish Red Cross, European UPSers worked with The UPS Foundation to provide in-kind transportation of safety glasses and masks from the Iberian Peninsula to La Palma Island to address the island's shortage of these essential items.

Celebrating the Jim Casey Community Service Award Finalists

The Jim Casey Community Service Award is one way UPS recognizes employees who demonstrate an exceptional commitment to give back to their community. Each year, The UPS Foundation invites UPSers to nominate colleagues for the award. The 2021 winner was awarded a $25,000 grant, and the finalists received $5,000 grants in support of the non-profit organizations that they serve. These UPSers are truly delivering what matters.

Creating a flowering forest to honor Congressman John Lewis' legacy

To honor the late Congressman Lewis, The UPS Foundation is supporting the creation of a living tree memorial in Freedom Park in Atlanta, Georgia. UPS volunteers joined others in planting hundreds of blooming plants, including more than 300 trees, colorful flowering shrubs, and fields of daffodils in the first phase of this multi-year project. The flowering trees that will surround the Plaza will remove 100 metric tons of CO2 from the atmosphere while beautifying the park dedicated to Congressman Lewis' legacy. This is the first of 14 planned projects with the Arbor Day Foundation. LEARN MORE ►

Building a green memorial to honor 9/11 heroes

It's a somber commemoration, but 2021 marked the 20th anniversary observance of the September 11th tragedy. The Flight 93 National Memorial is the nation's only national park commemorating the events of 9/11. Since 2012, The UPS Foundation, the National Park Foundation (NPF) and its local partners have worked together to plant thousands of trees in the park to restore the natural vibrancy of this reclaimed coal mine by creating a living, green memorial honoring those lost on 9/11. The UPS Foundation is the largest supporter of the Flight 93 National Memorial. UPS has planted more than 130,000 trees in memory of the 40 passengers and crew of the flight. LEARN MORE ►

Promoting sustainability in the world's most biodiverse regions

For 10 years, The UPS Foundation has funded significant reforestation projects in Africa, Asia, and Latin America through the World Wildlife Fund's (WWF) Education for Nature Program. Working with local and indigenous community groups, non-governmental organizations, and academic institutions in key cities, biodiversity "hotspots," and rural areas, the WWF has successfully focused on improving degraded lands, restoring watersheds, expanding forest cover, and enhancing socio-economic and cultural benefits. The improvements, such as supporting local ecotourism and beekeeping projects, have helped end poverty and promoted equal gender participation. Additionally, these restoration activities reduce vulnerability to disasters and restore habitats in biodiverse regions. LEARN MORE ►

Launching the Forest of the Future through carbon-free shipping at Expo 2020 Dubai

As the Official Logistics Partner of the Expo 2020 Dubai, UPS demonstrated its commitment to innovation and addressing climate change by delivering one of the most sustainable expos in history. Every package shipped in 2021 at the UPS Expo 2020 was transported carbon free. With every package shipped, a tree was planted in the customer's honor as part of the Forest of the Future initiative. A total of 10,000 trees were pledged to be planted. Customers had the option to choose planting their trees in the Indian subcontinent, The Middle East, Africa, or Asia. UPS was also able to mitigate carbon dioxide emissions by purchasing the carbon offsets for each package shipped.

Creating logistics tools to reach Net Zero faster

The global logistics industry has an ambitious goal to reach zero emissions by 2050. Smart Freight Centre (SFC), an international non-profit, is dedicated to reducing greenhouse gas emissions resulting from freight transportation. In 2021, 8 million tons of CO2 were removed from the atmosphere thanks to the tool. SFC helped 34 organizations develop their Sustainable Logistics Roadmap, scale their decarbonizing efforts and train 341 logistics managers on reducing the environmental footprint of global supply chains. ECTAGONO

Revitalizing ecosystems after devastating wildfires

When a series of wildfires swept through Barranca de Tarango, they wiped out two years of reforestation efforts. The fires left the soil unsuitable for tree planting in one of Mexico City's last natural areas. The UPS Foundation and UPS volunteers joined Ectagano in creating a "pollinator trail" in the devastated landscape. By planting 240 species of plants that will attract pollinators, seeds and pollen will disperse more rapidly and strengthen the ecosystem's regeneration. This is the first step in a long-term strategy to restore Barranca de Tarango and support the communal health and quality of life for its citizens.

Inspiring the next generation of conservation leaders

The Student Conservation Association (SCA) is committed to fighting climate change injustices by providing youth with employment and volunteer opportunities in America's parks and public lands. SCA is building a green-minded, job-ready workforce that will help create more resilient cities. In 2021, The UPS Foundation funded the expansion of the Community Crews program to Atlanta, Georgia where Black students were hired to work on projects such as invasive species removal, habitat restoration, litter abatement, resurfacing gardens, fencing and trail work. This partnership has helped approximately 500 youth across ten U.S. cities gain valuable work experience, earn wages, and build skills for lifelong success all while serving their local communities.
